

LEVEL 5 - BLACK BAND

SKILL

Level 5 is a very open-ended level. As the final step in the syllabus, it mimics the open-ended nature of the discipline itself. Parkour is ever-changing and always adapting. New movements are created and old ones are improved. When a student obtains this level, they've shown the diligence and persistence necessary to step outside of their comfort zones, and to begin to learn more about themselves. Level 5 is also where your training becomes a little more self-directed. There is no longer a complete list of skills to learn, as new things are being invented or changed on a regular basis. Now is the time to find a more personalized path through Parkour.

Level 5 is when you no longer need someone to tell you what you should learn next. It is the final step of the syllabus, but the first step in your solo journey into the world of Parkour.
